Walker had moved that the delegates all be given verbatim reports of the conference dealing with the strike situation in Illinois.

Lewis ruled it out of order, but declared that they would be no straddling or whitewashing, as he had nothing to conceal.

More than 1500 delegates are in attendance, the largest in the history of the organization.

HUSBAND CAUSES ARREST OF WIFE

Then Pays Her Fine, When She Agrees to Leave His House.

"Are you the complaining witness against this woman?" asked Judge Lea of J. S. Hart, a grocer, Friday morning, when a Mexican woman was arraigned on a charge of disturbing the peace.

"Yes, sir," was the reply; "I married her a year ago today.

Hart, who said he lived at 914 South Shannon street, stated that he had never appeared in court before, and that he regretted having to appear against his wife.

"But she has made living with her impossible," he continued. "I have a small grocery store, and by her actions she has nearly ruined my trade. Yesterday she broke my glasses, pulled down a door, and has behaved that caused trouble when customers were in the house."

Joe Stevens, who made the arrest, testified that he had seen the broken glasses, and that the woman had made the statement to him that the reason she had caused so much trouble was because her husband was talking with other women.

"What do you want done with her?" asked the court.

"Whatever is right," was the reply, "but I would like to have you tell me to take her things and go."

In answer to a question by Judge Lea, the woman said she did not intend to live with Hart any longer.

A nominal fine was imposed, which the husband paid, and the romance of a year ago is ended.

The wreck of the United States battleship Maine in Havana harbor. Now that the attorney general's office has rendered an opinion granting the war department permission to proceed with the raising of the Maine, several prominent contractors have sent in bids for the job, among them being John R. ## NEW MEXICO MAN BEST NAVAL SHOT

Ensign Gill of Organ in Charge of Guns on Idaho Makes Big Score.

To be the best shot on the best shooting battleship in the world is the honor that has come to a New Mexico officer in Uncle Sam's navy. Ensign C. C. Gill, son of Capt. Gill, of Organ, N. M., is the officer who has carried away all of the honors at the target practices which have just been announced by secretary of the navy Meyer. Ensign Gill is assigned to the battleship Idaho, which stands at the top of the list for the record made during the target practices recently completed.

He made three hits out of three shots in 68 seconds, which gives him the highest average of any man in the navy, this being an average of 2.7 hits per minute.

This target practice was done under battle conditions and the arm- and navy officers are marveling at the records that were made by the men in charge of the guns on the battleships. The Idaho made a score of 46,121 for the contest, which placed it at the top of the list of competing ships. The South Carolina was second with a score of 42,585. Ensign Gill, who holds the record of the navy, visited his father at Organ in 1908, spending a part of his leave in Las Cruces and at his father's home in the Organ mountains, where Capt. Gill is interested in a number of mining claims.

GETTING READY TO BUILD RAILROAD

El Paso Company Prepares to Go to the Damsite at Once.

Although the official award has not yet been made by the reclamation service at Washington for the construction of the Elephant Butte railroad, the Petrolithic company which submitted the lowest bids for schedules 1 and 2, is preparing to move its outfit to the site of the railroad line.

It will be several days before official notification of the award is received here, but as the Petrolithic company was the lowest bidder both on the rock and earthwork construction of the railroad, it is expected that this company will be awarded the contract.

Brown & Connor, of Tucumcari, were the lowest bidders on the bridge construction on the line and will probably be awarded the contract for this part of the work.

WISTER ROMANCE COMES TO A HEAD HERE

Chat Cowman to Wed Village School Teacher—Is Now on the Way to Denver to Be Married.

When Owen Wister penned the chapters of "The Virginian," and its romance of schoolmistress and cowboy, he struck the keynote of many a past romance and many a romance to come.

In the everyday west of windmill and wire fence, there may appear little of romance to the average visitor. "Days of such things are past," they will tell you.

But a cattle man of the El Paso district and a school teacher are to be married this month, just as Wister's hero and heroine, cowboy and school "marm." What romance lies back of the case is not known, but it must be there as well as in a novel.

It is Joseph L. Cobb, a Clint, Texas, ranchman, who is to marry Miss Mahedi Kendall, who last year taught the children of Clint. It is to occur August 20 at Denver, Colo.

With customary cowboy modesty, Cobb already has slipped away, and is hitting the north trail for the Colorado city. It is through the mother of the groom-to-be that the announcement comes.

Johnson came to El Paso from Denver, and was located through a negro woman with whom he has been associating while here.
